Brewster, Mohn Indicted For Contempt Of Congress

Challenge Beck's Account Of Borrowing Union Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate rack-ets investigators said further questioning today of Frank W. Brewster may have a "vital" bearing on a later probe involving President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union.

At the same time, counsel Robert F. Kennedy of the special Senate committee said Beck's story of borrowing union funds "is not the same as our information." Faces More Questioning

Brewster, a vice president of the union and chairman of its 11-state Western Conference, has testified that he also has borrowed union money. He faced more questioning about the financing of his race horse stables, Kennedy said.

Brewster was indicted Monday by a federal grand jury on contempt of Congress charges along with Vice President Einar Mohn and two lesser union officials. All four were accused of having contemptuously refused to answer questions in a prior inquiry conducted in January by the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Also Under Investigation

Under investigation by another federal grand jury was still another vice president of the Teamsters, James R. Hoffa, accused of bribing a racketeering committee staff lawyer to provide him information from committee files.

Beck said in a television interview Sunday he had borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 of union funds some years ago without interest, and paid back "every cent" of it. Kennedy told newsmen that "Mr. Beck's description of his financial transactions with union funds, which he describes as loans, is not the same as our information."

Financial Transactions

Kennedy said the committee was investigating the loans to Beck long before the union president mentioned them on television. "We would rather describe them as financial transactions than loans," Kennedy added.

He said committee investigators also have information about what he called "other cases where union officials borrowed large sums," not all of them interest free. He said he considered some-

$17 Is Stolen When Burglar Visits Garage

Between $15 and $17 was stolen from the Quaker Motor Sales, 1516 S. Lincoln Ave., sometime between 6 p.m. Monday and 8:30 p.m. today, police reported today.

George Pacurar, owner of the Quaker Motor Sales, informed police of the theft this morning at 8:45 as he opened for the day. He said that the money was taken from a cash register and that another $1.50 in change was stolen from a glass jar that had been sitting on a beverage machine.

He told police that entry was made by breaking a pane of glass and then unlatching a window on the east side of the building. Nothing else was reported missing, police reported.

Cites 'Gouging' Of Car Buyers

Other 'Finance Shark' Tactics Are Bared

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Better Business Bureau official said today the laws of many states permit what he called gouging by finance sharks through high interest rates to auto buyers.

John L. O'Brien of Akron, Ohio, in testimony prepared for the Senate subcommittee on automotive marketing practices, said what he called excessive interest and other auto finance gouges are permitted under the law in all but 15 states.

Noting at the beginning that he is not criticizing the "thousands of reputable automobile dealers and financial institutions," O'Brien said that nonetheless he has reports of car finance gouging in 45 U. S. cities. He did not name the cities.

O'Brien listed these contract "packing" practices as outstanding among dishonest car dealers and finance companies, as described by Better Business Bureaus in the reporting cities:

Middle East Confab Urged By Khrushchev

Replies To Letter From Editor Of Michigan Newspaper

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev has called for a Middle East conference as an immediate step toward relaxing world tensions. He did not name the countries he thought should participate, but he apparently had in mind something similar to the 1954 big power Geneva conference on Indochina. Khrushchev said that meeting eased world tensions for a time.

Replies To Newspaper The party leader's statement was made in reply to questions from the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Herald. The exchange was given prominent front-page space in today's Moscow newspapers.

Responding to the letter from Herald Managing Editor Charles L. Clapp, Khrushchev declared a U. S. "policy of strength" is endangering world peace.

He called for better U.S.-Russian relations to reduce international tension.

"We are for relieving international tension and improving Soviet-American relations because we believe that this corresponds to the interests of the Soviet as well as the American people," he said.

Respect Previous Remarks

The statements, repeating remarks made previously by Khrushchev and other Russian leaders, were included in a 3 1/2-page letter handed to Clapp at Washington Saturday by Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zaroubin.

The interview was distributed by Russia's Tass news agency, published in Berlin by the official East German news agency ADN, and broadcast by Moscow radio.

In order to permit simultaneous publication in Russia and in the Herald, a morning paper of 33,000 daily circulation in western Michigan, the release time of Monday night was agreed on.

Clapp said he wrote the letter Feb. 26 and mailed it to the Russian Embassy in Washington.

Little Hope For Answer "Frankly, when I mailed the letter I had little hope it would be answered," clapp said.

Later Clapp received a telephone call from Second Secretary Vladimir K. Lobachev, who asked for help in translating the phrase "the real McCoy."

Clapp explained it meant "the genuine article," and Lobachev told him: "You shall hear from us."

A discussion was held on the condition of the Hopple's Corners dump which people in that vicinity have started to complain about again. Dr. C. S. Palmer advised the board that the dump is now being covered and that they were operating as they should. Broken equipment was given as the cause for not covering each day as they were instructed to do.

The next meeting will be held April 15.

Ike Feeling 'Much Better'

Expected To Reach Bermuda Wednesday

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER — President Eisenhower described as feeling much better after three days of warm sunshine, steamed toward Bermuda today for talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Traveling aboard the Navy guided missile cruiser Canberra, Eisenhower is to arrive at Hamilton, Bermuda, late Wednesday. His session with Macmillan will commence Thursday and end Sunday.

The President sailed from Norfolk, Va., last Thursday evening on a meandering six-day voyage to Bermuda in a move to shake a persistent cough, a head cold and an ear inflammation.

From Saturday morning until Monday night the Canberra cruised leisurely in the quiet, sunlit waters of Exuma Bay in the Bahamas Islands area. Then the warship moved around the southern tip of Cat Island and headed for Bermuda, 850 miles northeast.

Just before the Canberra moved out of Exuma Bay Monday night the President told the crew he was having "a most enjoyable trip."

His informal remarks from an impromptu stage on the floodlit foredeck came at the end of a "happy hour" program of

The school board and church trustees are still apart on a solution to the street problems. W. H. Matthews, who acted as land purchasing agent for the school board when the school site was selected a year ago, met last night with school board members.

Gunman Had Slain Officer At Roadblock

Bandit Was Fleeing With $1,665 From Bank In Indiana

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A fleeing bank robber killed a veteran state police officer at a roadblock Monday and then died in a gun duel with the officer's friend, a Methodist minister.

Sgt. Marvin E. Walts, 49, a veteran of 19 years' state police service, was killed by a bullet that entered his forehead while William Hassett, 25, of Louisville, was dropped by two shotgun charges fired by the minister through the rear window of the trooper's car.

The Rev. Robert Gingery, 37, minister of Trinity Methodist Church in nearby New Albany, gave this account of the incident although he was in a near state of shock:

Directed to Roadblock

He and Walts were returning from looking at fishing sites in the area of Sellersburg, a community north of Jeffersonville, when state police radio broadcasted that the Sellersburg State Bank had been robbed of $1,665 by a gunman. Although it was his day off, Walts was directed to a roadblock four miles north of here and Gingery accompanied him.

Hassett, stopped by Walts, got out of his 1947 car and said: "I hope this thing won't take too long."

The trooper searched Hassett and found nothing significant but when he looked in the car, he spotted a brown leather jacket, a key item in the description of the bank robber.

"I've got a subject here that answers the description," Walts radioed his post. "Give me that description again."

Returned to Bandit's Car

Gingery said that Walts then returned to the bandit's car with the suspect.

"I could see Walts bending down as if looking under the front seat," said Gingery. "Then I saw the man jerking around in the seat as if he was after something. I could see them scuffling and I heard some shots. I didn't see Walts after the shooting but the other man got out of the car and ran around the other side."

"Then I saw him crossing the road toward me with a gun..."

Gingery said he then picked up the pump-action riot gun from the police car seat and leveled it out the side window.

Ran Behind Auto

"He saw it and ducked," Gingery said. "He ran around behind the car. It's a good thing he did. I tried the trigger, but nothing happened. Then I thought of the safety."

"I saw him through the rear window pointing at me. He fired a shot and a bullet whizzed past me. I pointed the gun at the win-

Vote Set On Measure Affecting Temporary Teacher Certificates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate scheduled a vote today on a bill to limit validity of a temporary teacher certificate to the school district which asked that the certificate be issued.

The Ohio Department of Education, in these days of teacher shortages, issues hundreds of temporary certificates every year on request of school superintendents.

The aim of the bill sponsored by Sen. Gordon Renner (R-Hamilton) is to keep a teacher — a temporary certificate in her hand — from shopping around for a job. If the Renner bill becomes law, it will force longtime holders of temporary certificates who want to move from job to job to prepare themselves for standard teacher certificates.

A constitutional proposal to help the governor draft out-of-state talent for top administrative posts cleared its first hurdle Monday night. It was approved by the Senate, 27-3. It now goes to the House and, if it gets a three-fifths vote there, will need majority approval by Ohio voters at the polls.

The Ohio constitution for more than 100 years has required that both elected and appointed officials of the state be "qualified electors." Principally, that means they must have lived in Ohio at least a year. The proposed change would eliminate that provision.

As a result of the present constitutional provision, Charles Noble is on the state payroll as "secretary to the governor in charge of highway administration" although he is actually highway director. But, because he comes to Ohio from New Jersey, he cannot legally hold the title of highway director for another 10 months, when he will complete a year's residence here.

The Senate also passed a House-approved emergency bill to permit state universities to issue bonds to build off-campus dormitories and other buildings. The bill untangles a legal snarl which faces Ohio State University in the issuance of about six million dollars' worth of bonds. The measure will be effective as soon as it is signed by Gov. C. William O'Neill.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills to: Increase the pay of county school board members from $5 to $8 a meeting.

Authorize county commissioners to operate training schools for enforcement officers.

Allow examination of prospective court jurors under oath.

Conrad, who has flown more small planes across greater reaches of open water than any other man, said he is calling his forthcoming flight to Paris "my silver anniversary trip."

"On the first four or five flights things went wrong and I had troubles," Conrad said. His first was in September 1950.

WANT ADS ARE USED BY MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER FORM OF ADVERTISING!

It is conservatively estimated that more than 300 million individual advertisements appeared on the Want Ad pages of America's newspapers in 1956.

In terms of money, this represents an expenditure approaching $700 million dollars, which is more than was spent on all radio advertising, or all weekly magazine advertising, or all outdoor sign advertising.

And these figures were achieved without any support from the big national advertisers. All these ads and all this money came from private individuals and local businessmen.

NATIONAL WANT AD WEEK serves as a reminder, an occasion to point out some interesting facts about this most popular and widely used of all advertising media.

No matter what your need or want may be, Want Ads can help you, just as they help millions of others every day in the year.

Storms Pound Midwest Areas

Foot Of Snow Pile Up In Some States

By The Associated Press
Today was the last full day of the winter season but it looked like mid-winter in many northern Midwest states with the second heavy snowfall in less than a week.

Snow piled up to a foot in sections of Nebraska and South Dakota and there were lesser amounts in parts of Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan. Blizzards hit some of the same areas last Thursday and Friday.

The spring season starts at 3:17 p.m. C.S.T. Wednesday.

A mixture of freezing rain, sleet and snow occurred in lower Michigan during the night while snow fell in most of Wisconsin. Falls had ended in most areas west of the Mississippi River in Iowa and the plains although skies were overcast.

A low pressure area which moved across southern Illinois brought moderate to heavy precipitation to the southern Great Lakes region. Another disturbance near the South Atlantic Coast produced rain in that area.

Rain or drizzle was widespread from Missouri and Illinois eastward through the Ohio Valley and southward to the South Atlantic Coast.

Wet weather was indicated in the upper Ohio Valley and southward to the South Atlantic Coast. Wet weather was indicated in the upper Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic Coast States.

It was a little chilly in northern New England and the northern Great Lakes with temperatures mostly under 20 degrees. Readings were below freezing as far south as southern Kansas as the cool air dipped into Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

Science Wins Over 'Wiggle System'

TOLEDO, Ohio (U)—Science has won by default over the Wiseley wiggle system of weather forecasting.

At least science, represented by U.S. Weather Forecaster Don Coleman, claims a victory.

But Clayton H. Wiseley, principal of Coy Elementary School and proponent of his own wiggle system, still believes school pupils squirm in their seats when the barometer begins to plunge.

The test came last January when Wiseley announced he planned to match the accuracy of bad weather forecasts made with his wiggle system against those of the Weather Bureau.

Weatherman Coleman took him up, and sent him a set of forecast verification forms on which to keep records.

Wiseley admitted Sunday he never kept the records.

"I just didn't have the time. The forms asked for temperatures and I don't know what all" he explained.

Wiseley said his wiggle system grew out of his observations of animals in his boyhood days on a farm near Findlay.

"Livestock was more difficult to control when there was a change in the weather," he said. "The chickens were more excitable."

But Coleman, apparently after some soul-searching, drew on some farm experiences of his own in rebuttal.

He lives on a farm now and said he was inclined last winter toward the wiggle system after noticing his guinea hens forsook a tree for indoor sleeping in advance of several rains.

"But then one night last winter they got caught," Coleman summarized smugly.

YOUNGSTERS BITE BABY

CLEVELAND (U)—Three-month-old Frank Garber was treated at St. Alexis' Hospital Monday night for bites from head to foot apparently inflicted by two children, aged 3 and 2.

The infant's mother, Mrs. Dolores Garber, 23, told police she had been baby sitting with a neighbor's children and left the children alone for about five minutes to make a telephone call. When she returned, she said, the older children were on the bed with the baby.

JESUS LOVED THEM

By PATRICK and GARRISON

JAMES Son of Zebedee

"And when he had gone a little farther thence, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who also were in the ship mending their nets."

—Mark 1:19

James, like his younger brother John, was a well-to-do fisherman on the Lake of Galilee.

At the Master's call, both left their nets to become "fishers of men."

Jesus called the brothers Boanerges, meaning "Sons of Thunder," apparently because of their dynamic, burning faith.

This impetuous zeal which characterized both brothers is evident in the passage (Luke IX:51-56) which tells of the Samaritans' refusal to receive Jesus because He was enroute to Jerusalem, the capital city of their enemies, the Jews.

"And when his disciples James and John saw this they said, Lord wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them even as Elias did?"

But Jesus curbed their spirit of retaliation. He told them: "The Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them."

Instead of creating a public tumult, as well as further resistance to His message, Jesus went to another village.

James, along with John the Beloved, went with Jesus to the garden of Gethsemane on the night of agony before the Crucifixion. He was also a witness to the Transfiguration and, later, to the Ascension.

According to Scripture (Acts XII:1,2), James was arrested on orders from King Herod Agrippa shortly before Passover in the year 44, and was beheaded.

Secular history tells us that the accuser of James, who had brought him before the judges who condemned him was so deeply impressed by the apostle's faith and constancy, even under torture, that the informer was himself converted to Christianity, and suffered the same fate as James.

The characteristic of James that makes him an immortal prototype of the true believer was his steadfast faith in Jesus and His mission.

He had but to meet the Nazarene to recognize and follow Him through all the hardships, persecutions, and condemnation which followed.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

James Riddle Hoffa was so busy living by his own tough code he forgot he was code No. 1705807 in the FBI files. He knows his own code well but he forgot that it says there's always somebody just a little tougher. That somebody was the FBI when it closed in on him on charges of tampering with government files — and bribery.

This surprised the man, for no one and nothing had ever before balked him. Once, though history has not yet recorded it, Hoffa wanted to build a stone fence around his home.

He inquired about the masons rate per hour and chuckled when he found it higher than his own team's got — and more than he wanted to pay.

So he decided to split the rock himself. Soon he wielded a heavy hammer and cracked rock in a way which would have crushed most other men with fatigue. And with his own tough hands he built the stone wall.

Physically and psychologically Jimmy Hoffa has lived behind that stone wall ever since.

THERE ARE MANY who think they know what this man of the moment wants — money, power, prestige, presidency of the teamsters, national respectability, world prominence, the admiration of his buddies. But no one really knows, for no one is his confidant. Fact is that Hoffa had almost all these in his rough-hewn mind.

Today he is president of the million dollar Michigan Teamsters' Local 299, president of Detroit Joint Council 43, ninth vice-president of the International Teamsters Brotherhood, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters Temple Assn., president of the Michigan Conference of Teamsters, negotiating chairman of 23 states for all teamsters on highway and city transportation and for the Central States Drivers Council.

Hoffa also is chairman of the Teamsters' Central States Conference and dominant trustee of the Central States Teamsters' Welfare Fund, which has placed millions in banks throughout the Midwest. He is also trustee for Locals 247 and 614 — which means he directs them as though he were president and board of directors rolled into one.

HE IS ALSO the power patron for the eastern teamsters, which leaves only the western fief of horseman Frank Brewster as a barony independent of the ever-whirling Jimmy.

As for the teamsters' presidency, he obviously could have had that anytime he wished. Late last April, I learned from my hospital bed that Dave Beck had arisen at a teamster dinner — after Hoffa had been honored the night before by 3,000 world renowned leaders and their followers — and said Jimmy was his heir.

Weeks later it was learned that Beck had asked a close personal friend, a Chicagoan, to go to Jimmy in Detroit and ask him to create the office of teamsters' executive vice-president.

Beck's plan was to have Hoffa nominate him at the September 1957 convention in Miami Beach, accept election and then resign within the year — leaving automatic succession to Hoffa.

SO WHAT WAS it Hoffa wanted? Wealth? He has that. Among his other ventures is the construction of an office skyscraper for commercial rentals. Yet Hoffa's code was to remain the defiant one. No one could break him from even his grimmest friends.

The inner motivating drive was to tell everybody to go to hell.

Senate probe? The FBI's bribery charges. Just buy your way in.

As the code has always had it — there is always somebody in a district attorney's office who will "leak" information.

The code also said not to worry about files being subpoenaed. It is, for example, the practice of Hoffa's Local 299 to destroy all financial records each year — whether they need it or not, for storage space.

ONCE, WHEN asked by a congressional committee who gave him the authority, Hoffa said the teamsters' constitution did? How? By the section which gives each Joint Council of Teamsters the right to pass its own by-laws.

Local 299 is under the jurisdiction of Teamsters Council 43 which authorized the burning of the books.

Who is president of Joint Council 43? James Riddle Hoffa. Why burn them? Because nobody is going to tell Hoffa not to burn them. Nobody ever talked back to Hoffa.

Not until Hoffa's code ran into the FBI's code. And now they say Hoffa may have to live a bit behind another kind of wall. If so, was it worth it?

Purse Power

In New York State a proposed quarter-billion-dollar bond issue for state university construction in the next five years shows which way the wind is blowing in higher education.

Although New York has confined itself to junior college (first two years) up to this time, senior colleges would be added in the proposed expansion. This would bring the Empire State into line with the trend in states like Ohio, which are deeply committed to senior-college education at state expense.

Ohio's new commission on education beyond high school has been instructed by Gov. O'Neill to study ways and means to provide college facilities "for every young man and woman . . . willing to obtain an education beyond high school."

Some measure of the rate of spending entailed in such a program can be arrived at by the operating expenses for Ohio's five universities in the current year — a budget item of $38 million that is rising steadily. Next year it will go to more than $41 million. Two new senior universities are being proposed in Ohio, moreover, New construction is paid for separately.

Experts agree that private colleges and universities have no chance to expand at the rate considered imperative for tax-supported schools; income and inheritance taxes take too much wealth that otherwise might be turned over to these voluntary institutions. Moreover, they do not want to expand at the expense of losing their teaching integrity, which they are struggling to preserve with larger annual increases in tuition fees accompanied by aggressive campaigns for more operating funds from private sources.

Those who are concerned lest education come under political control need to look beyond elementary and high schools to the place where public purse power can put the bulk of students into political hands as tax-supported universities gain momentum that voluntary schools cannot match.

Paper Security

The federal Social Security Act of 1937, is 20 years old, and its Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance, as might be expected, now is the largest of the government's numerous trust funds.

These funds are financial devices that have become a kind of government within the government. The Old-Age and Survivors' fund will have reached $23.6 billion by the end of the fiscal year beginning July 1.

This means that it will hold that equivalent in government bonds, which are an obligation on Treasury revenues. Money paid into the fund by its beneficiaries in the form of current payroll taxes is spent as it is received.

When the Treasury pays its bonds, the same people who are covered by Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance must help pay off the bonds, plus interest. A typical situation might be described as follows:

A potential beneficiary of the insurance will owe $2 for every $1 he has paid into his Social Security account. The $2 must be paid in taxes directly to the government; the $1 went to the Social Security Agency for purchase of bonds which the insured must help to redeem.

Although the Social Security Act has been in operation for two decades, it never has been understood that its Old-Age and Survivors' benefits are not comparable with insurance, because social security beneficiaries pay taxes, not premiums. It may take another two decades to realize that they pay taxes twice — once to the agency that holds their account, then to the agency that pays off their account when it falls due.

Sen. Lausche Scores

It took more than Sen. Lausche's one-man stand against a Pan-Am Games stadium appropriation in the federal budget to knock it out of the State Department's request. The idea was opposed by others, too.

Cleveland, itself, never was completely sold on the project that would have given it another public stadium with federal help. Although Clevelanders went through the motions of nailing Sen. Lausche's hide to the barn door for crystallizing opposition to the stadium appropriation, they did not have their civic hearts in it. Sen. Lausche knew that.

Nevertheless, for suggesting that there was a place where a few million dollars would be lopped off the budget bloodlessly he was patted vigorously by Cleveland newspapers. Cleveland politicians cut his throat from ear to ear. No doubt many taxpayers who yearn for relief from the endless sweating out of billions of revenue got their wires crossed and cursed out Sen. Lausche for suggesting that they save money in their own bailiwick.

Yet with one shrewd move, Sen. Lausche drew national attention as a freshman senator. It may be true, as political cynics say it is, that there are no votes in budget-cutting. But Sen. Lausche does not need to worry about votes until 1961. His first necessity is to establish a reputation—and it is significant that Ohio's shrewdest politician has decided to be known as a money-saver.

Aswan Move Clarified

Dulles Reveals Real Reasons For Withdrawal

Crisis after crisis is coming in the Middle East — and the main reason is the deliberate effort of the Soviet government to use Nasser and any other rulers in the Arab world to keep aflame the fires of hostility to the West.

The U.N. Assembly may prove powerless to bring peace in the area. It may turn out that joint action by the United States and its allies will alone bring the Nasser government to terms.

For it is apparent that the Gaza Strip isn't going to be neutralized if Moscow can prevent it and if Nasser can bluff his way to a permanent occupation by his own forces.

It is suspected also that when the government of Saudi Arabia announced that Israel's ships will not be allowed to use the Gulf of Aqaba, the Communists — notwithstanding the king's friendliness to the United States — may have managed to penetrate the Saudi Arabia government itself.

In all this the Department of State is trying still to play the role of mediator but is hard pressed by the pleas of Israel that the "assumptions" upon which her withdrawal of troops were based shall not be disregarded nor Nasser again given a free hand.

THE SYMPATHY of Congress as well as the executive branch of the government is on the side of Israel in the latest phase of the dispute because it is felt a "moral commitment" was made to Ben-Gurion to persuade him to withdraw his troops on the assurance there would be security for Israel against Egyptian raids.

But the big question — what action America can or might take — is still unresolved. In matters of this kind it is logical to apply diplomatic influence first and later perhaps economic pressure in order to get Nasser to change his mind.

Meanwhile, an interesting revelation has been made by Secretary Dulles with reference to a point that has often been discussed in press reports but never clarified, namely the relationship between the breakoff by the United States of negotiations for the financing of the Aswan Dam and the subsequent seizure of the Suez Canal by Nasser.

Unfriendly critics here and abroad have charged that it was all Mr. Dulles' fault and that had he not broken off the negotiations maybe the canal would not have been seized.

IN A PRESS CONFERENCE at Canberra, last Wednesday, the text of which was not generally printed in this country, the following questions and answers, recorded stenographically then, are of renewed significance now.

"Q. — Has the United States of America ever regretted its decision to cancel the loan to Egypt for the Aswan Dam?"

"A. — (Mr. Dulles): No, I think if anything events have confirmed that fact that it would not have been a wise operation for us to have tried to conduct together."

"That was a gigantic proposition which involved expenditures of probably a billion and a half dollars, by far the largest operation of the kind ever known in the history of the world. It would have taken about 15 years of close association."

"It would have involved an austerity program on the part of Egypt which I think the people would have come to resent and would have blamed the foreigners who were partners to the enterprise."

"The more we studied it the more we came to the conclusion that it was not a suitable project for the United States and the United Kingdom — because they were in it also — to try to conduct with Egypt."

"Q. — Do you think it hastened the seizure of the Canal company by Egypt?"

"A. — Well, it is hard to say whether that hastened it or not. We know now from statements made by President Nasser and also made by President Tito that there had been plans to seize the universal canal company made approximately two years before."

"THE PLANS were all ready and this may have provided the occasion but if there had not been this occasion, I am quite sure another one would have been found."

"Q. — Was it the hope of your government when the United Nations first moved into the Gaza Strip that they would remain for some considerable time?"

"A. — We believe that it would be desirable to have the United Nations emergency force function as a barrier between Israel and the neighboring Arab countries."

"That has been difficult to work out, partly because Israel has not wanted to have any elements of the United Nations force on the Israeli side of the boundary and Egypt has not wanted to have them exclusively on the Egyptian or Gaza Strip on the boundary."

"But I still hope something can be worked out there to give greater stability and tranquility to the area and to put a stop to the raiding back and forth."

This continues to be the objective but Nasser, stimulated by Soviet advisers, is still bluffing his way even as Hitler and Mussolini did in the 1930's.

The real question is whether the free governments of the world have learned that it doesn't pay to appease dictators.

Road Rabbits

By TRUMAN TWILL

With a little bit of luck, I can become the king of the defensive drivers in this part of Smashemup, U.S.A.

A defensive driver is one who has adopted the philosophy of a rabbit: You must corner me to kill me, because I will not fight you.

We who have taken this credo to heart have lost all our automotive spunk. We will not challenge anybody for anything.

The way we see it, there is nothing to be won in a battle fought with two-ton missiles. We surrender.

The opposition can drive down the middle of the road if that is the way the opposition wants it, and we shall take our share on the berm, in a nearby field, or in a ditch.

No one can tease us into a competitive sprint to see who gets sideswiped when a traffic light changes, because even after it turns green on our side we are still looking for the would-be murderer getting ready to crash it from the other direction.

Moreover, anyone planning to catch us squeezing through on the change will have to do it from behind, because we'll be sitting there minding our own business, paying no attention to squealing tires, bleating horns and tinkling glass.

On the super-roads, our only concern will be to go fast enough to keep up with the slowest trucks. We are not curious about the speedometers on our engine-driven tumblers. All of us will get to the Big Speedway up in the sky soon enough without staging a match race to see who should get there first.

We have a weakness for roads that go around Robin Hood's barn if they are less hazardous than some high-speed chute that leads to the slaughterhouse.

Nothing stirs our enthusiasm like the prospect of being home and alive a week after all holidays, even if it means staying where we are while all holidays are in progress.

We are as skittish about weekend driving in nice weather as we would be about strolling through a thicket in a deer costume on the opening day of deer season.

Every horsepower over enough to pull the wagon strikes us road rabbits as being one more sleeping horse to be let lie, like a sleeping dog.

The slightest hint of failing brakes can throw us into a panic, but it does not bother us if the go-devil does not leap off the ground when we, pardon the expression, goose it.

We are only mildly curious about what lies over the next hill; we'll know soon enough.

The sound of the horn on our Mortgagemobiles is as embarrassing to us as a persistent hacking cough in church.

When everybody else has finished boasting about how quickly they went from A to Z we will make them look good by admitting we were still on the other side of Baited Breath while they were approaching Oblivion.

They may knock us off sometime while we're dawdling, but the Smashemup experts will have to slow down to catch us.

Guess Whose Lap She'll Wind Up In!

Shaw's Last Joke

By JOHN HARRIMAN

Boston Globe writes John Harriman, making a tour of Europe, recently visited the English country cottage where George Bernard Shaw lived, worked and died.

AYOT ST. LAWRENCE, ENG. When George Bernard Shaw died he left a will that foxed the English for six years and bequeathed a two million dollar fortune (swelled by "My Fair Lady" royalties) to promote a cockeyed "common-sense alphabet."

Last month this part of the will was broken in Britain's high court and the money will now be divided by the British Museum, the National Gallery of Ireland and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

But Shaw's sardonic humor did not stop at the alphabet. He also left his home in this tiny English village to what is called the National Trust.

This is an organization to which dukes and earls either leave or deed their estates, thereby saving taxes for themselves and allowing their places to be opened to the public and preserved as sites of historic interest.

Shaw left no money along with the house, assuming apparently that his admirers would flock there, paying enough in admissions to keep it up. But this did not occur and the National Trust, too, for some years had its Shavian worries.

LAST JULY, however, the trust finally found a way out: It got itself a tenant.

The man who now sleeps where the great playwright once slept and works in the very room where such plays as St. Joan and Major Barbara were composed is a young Englishman named Christopher Casserly. He has a wife and two sons, 4 and 5 years old and is in the public relations business in London.

Casserly has quite a bargain, too: A few acres of grounds, a sturdy, Victorian house with six bedrooms, all for a rental of $490 a year, plus $257.60 in taxes.

Part of Casserly's deal for the house is that he show visitors at least the hall and study.

HE IS A VERY amusing, dour man, steeped in Shavian lore himself, and fascinated at the idea that he, an arch conservative himself, should be occupying the premises of one of the world's most prominent socialists.

"A political socialist, Shaw, you know," he explained, "but economically as conservative as myself. Did himself very well here, don't forget, staff of about four, not counting his secretary."

Naturally one looks at the books: Three complete sets of Shaw's, one of bound copies of his proofs; "Das Kapital," Cambridge history, dictionaries and reference books and, a complete set of Dickens.

There are two Bibles on Shaw's desk. One, very small, inscribed on a flyleaf already yellowing with age, "My Traveling Bible."

EVERYTHING, of course, had been left unchanged: The desk, the scales to weigh outgoing mail, the little typewriter on which Miss Blanche Patch, his secretary, had typed the manuscripts that Shaw wrote in his own kind of shorthand.

There are pictures of a few friends, Sydney and Beatrice Webb, for instance, and one of Gene Tunney. And that is all.

If gives one a strange feeling to realize that this room for 46 years sheltered one whose impact on his generation has been as great, probably, as any writer.

There is less of Shaw here than in a theater playing St. Joan, or Caesar and Cleopatra, much less. North American Newspaper Alliance

Changing Business Scene

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — Cutbacks in steel and copper production point up today the changing business scene: consumer spending trends, business caution over inventories, fruit of the big expansion drive started by the Korean war.

World shortages in copper and tight supply in steel sent both industries in quest of added production capacity.

Prices climbed and output climbed. Still more capacity will be added this year and next. Labor peace in copper for more than a year and in steel since last summer helped boost output and lick shortages.

By now the world can produce more copper than is currently wanted. For the moment anyway, the United States can turn out more of some kinds of steel than the customers want to stock.

The cutbacks so far aren't large, and may even profit the companies.

Steel production, after setting historic records in the first two months of this year, is now retreating toward 90 per cent of rated capacity. But steelmen point out that the most profitable output rate lies somewhere in that neighborhood.

To go above that steel companies usually have to use old and less efficient equipment; they have to delay ordinary shutdowns for needed maintenance; and, therefore, in setting records they may be doing so with some expensively turned out steel.

Copper production has been pared down by some firms in two steps, starting last November. But Phelps Dodge, for example, in its latest cutback which will start at the end of this week will be working its mines 22 days out of each 28 — and that's still more than a five day week. Any savings in overtime pay could make up for some of the decrease in sales and paring of prices that brought about the production cuts.

That is the production side of the picture, which the steel and copper companies can pretty much determine for themselves.

The sales side depends on their customers, to a large degree manufacturers making goods for the consuming public. And there have been some changes here. While shortages were feared and prices firm or rising, purchasing agents had incentives to build up inventories if they could. When supply caught up and prices, in some instances, turned soft, the incentive was to stop building up inventories and even to live off of present ones where feasible. So demand slipped, and fairly speedily.

Questions and Answers

Today's first inquiry deals with an extremely serious condition.

Q — Please tell just what a diabetic coma is and if it is serious.

A — Diabetic coma is a state of unconsciousness brought about by the accumulation of toxic substances in the blood as a result of uncontrolled diabetes. In other words, it is a sign of diabetes of the most serious nature and one which requires immediate and skillful treatment, usually in the hospital.

Q — I have read about a pill which can be taken internally which prevents sunburn. Would you say something about this?

A — There is a pill which has been employed for this purpose. But when used at all, it has to be taken with considerable caution. For myself, I should try to prevent sunburn by only gradual exposure and nature's method of protection with the pigment of tanning.

Q — Please do not tell me to see my doctor — I prefer your advice, I am 73 years old and have shortness of breath on the least exertion. I feel sure you can tell me what to do.

A — Dear Mrs. X: I appreciate your confidence and wish I could shorten the work of hundreds of clerks. It totals up and keeps track of all the nuts and bolts in the army possession.

This is but one more in the "arsenal" of brain machines recently turned out for government and industry. This sort of thing can do away with the human head, except for purposes of photography and shaving.

Q — Please say something about muscular atrophy. Is this the same as cancer?

A — There are several kinds of muscular atrophy, but none of them is considered the same as cancer. Probably the most important kind of muscular atrophy is that which results from a slow degeneration of some of the cells in the spinal cord and produces a wasting of the muscles without loss of sensation. This is found most often between the ages of 25 and 45 and is neither hereditary or characteristic of a family.

Radio Corporation of America has built an electric brain called "Bizmac," now being used by the Army to give a million facts formerly requiring the work of hundreds of clerks. It totals up and keeps track of all the nuts and bolts in the army possession.

This is but one more in the "arsenal" of brain machines recently turned out for government and industry. This sort of thing can do away with the human head, except for purposes of photography and shaving.

WE MAY ULTIMATELY see machines elected heads of corporations and hear of a board chairman dropped because he had no gears, wheels or cranks. It is even possible some big concern will send its elected officials fishing and call a special meeting of its mechanical devices to handle big problems fast.

POSSIBLE SCENE between a stenographer and a corporation chief:

"Miss Bilkins, throw the switch on machine 189-B and see what I should say in answering today's letters. Is there much mail?"

"I will consult our new mailogram apparatus and find out."

"The phone is ringing and I am glad to see you are not answering it. I thought I would never break you of the habit."

"It was hard realizing that all phone calls come from our talkatomic contraption and must be answered by our new jiffygraph."

CONSTIPATED?

new laxative discovery

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon. A "thrifty" colon is one that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

TO REGAIN NORMAL REGULARITY two things are necessary. First, the dry, shrunken contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be re-moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H STIMULATE it and so, excite its muscles to action; to a normal urge to purge.

ONLY A BULK LAXATIVE can 1) re-moisten this dry, shrunken waste and 2) supply vital bulk to re-create a normal urge to purge. And, of all bulk laxatives, COLONAD, the new relief...

and reduced prices—
passed on to you

When a new drug is born, its healing power must get to those who need it—fast. That's the first consideration. But at the outset it is expensive to produce. Therefore the price you pay for it at first may seem high.

But as soon as it can be produced in volume... down goes the price. Sulfas, penicillin, new antibiotics illustrate this principle.

Peoples pharmacists carefully follow your doctor's prescription accurately, speedily. You can be sure Peoples will be quick to pass along any price reductions. And, your prescription is priced with uniform economy.

Variety Spices Easter Suits

TIERED SKIRT . . . This is Arthur Jablow's "midway" suit silhouette with semi-fitted jacket, in worsted.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
In the spring a woman's fancy invariably turns to thoughts of an Easter suit. She also dreams of hats and shoes, gloves and handbags and crisp new fripperies, of course, but the major objective usually is the suit.

This spring it will be a fussy customer indeed who can't find a flattering suit silhouette, because the new suits are easier to wear than hats and shoes, gloves and handbags and crisp new fripperies, of course, but the major objective usually is the suit.

In the first place you won't have usually is the suit. This spring it will be a fussy customer indeed who can't find a flattering suit silhouette, because the new suits are easier to wear than hats and shoes, gloves and handbags and crisp new fripperies, of course, but the major objective usually is the suit.

In the first place you won't have to wear a waist cincher any more to squeeze into a tightly fitted jacket. Lines have been eased, and the loose or semi-fitted jacket is the new thing. Skirts may be slim or pleated, but all have room for walking.

TUBULAR SUIT . . . Jablow uses Italian silk tweed for this flattering suit with double-breasted jacket.

Tall women will like the new tiered skirts, seen in many high-style suits, usually accompanied by a semi-fitted hipbone length jacket.

For women who don't like the tubular look there are plenty of pleated skirts which look slim when standing still, but allow freedom for climbing in and out of taxis.

The new suits are notable for handsome, light-weight fabrics and soft, feminine details such as neckline bows, piping, tab trimmings and other dressmaker tricks.

The severe man-tailored suit is hard to find this spring — and a good thing, too, because this is a style that looks well on very few women.

You'll be seeing more pale gray suits this spring, after several seasons of charcoal tones. Navy is important also, especially with crisp white lingerie touches and white accessories.

This is a year when suit jackets are often worn casually open, giving new importance to the blouse beneath.

Blast Injures 26 at Ford Plant

Six Are Critical;
Cause Undetermined

DETROIT (AP)—An explosion at Ford Motor Co.'s giant Rouge plant sent 26 workers to hospitals with burns, cuts and broken bones Monday night.

Six were listed as critically hurt.

The blast occurred in a paint spray booth where new automobile frames were moved through on a conveyor belt for painting. The cause was not determined.

The department went back in operation with the start of the midnight shift, about 5½ hours after the explosion. The painting operation, however, was idle because of the damage.

About 2,000 workers were in the building when the explosion ripped out 50 feet of glass and brick wall, threw workmen off their feet, and set off a painted fire that was extinguished quickly.

The plant, on the outskirts of Detroit, is the world's largest industrial installation. It is a collection of buildings on a 2,000-acre site.

Carmen Sarotte, a 37-year-old general foreman, was one of the workmen standing outside the building when the blast sent flames shooting out of the mouth of the oven where the frames entered.

"Dazed and burning men came running toward us along the platform where the frames are loaded," he said. "We grabbed them, tore their burning clothes from them and then beat the fire out with our hands. We handled about five."

One man, his clothes flaming, stumbled over a guard rail and started running, said Henry J. Hill, a 39-year-old arc welder who was standing close by.

He tripped the running man and threw him to the ground.

"I grabbed a coat off a rack, wrapped him in it and beat him with my hands," he said.

About a quarter of the building was damaged, a Ford spokesman said. He gave no immediate estimate of the damage.

Ohioan Offers Lincoln Sketch to Eisenhowers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sketch made of Abraham Lincoln as he gave his famous Gettysburg Address goes to the White House today as a present to the President and Mrs. Eisenhower. The artist was an Ohioan.

The owner of the sketch, Joseph G. Head of Pequot Lakes, Minn., is a grandson of the artist, the late Col. Freeman Thorpe.

Thorpe also was commissioned to paint Lincoln's portrait at a later date. This painting was acquired by purchase in 1920 and now hangs in the main corridor in the Senate wing of the Capitol.

Thorpe, a native of Geneva, Ohio, served as a volunteer in the 2nd Ohio Cavalry in the Civil War. He said his grandfather arranged to go to Gettysburg when he learned Lincoln was to visit the battlefield and sketched him at the time.

The library of Congress said a studio was built for Thorpe's use on the roof of the Capitol when the artist was only 27. President Grant sat for his portrait there. Thorpe painted portraits of many eminent people including five U. S. Presidents—Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and Cleveland.

Cites 'Abusiveness' Of Pike Patrolman

CLEVELAND (AP)—David Benis, 50, who objects to driving more than 40 to 45 m.p.h., has asked for an investigation of the alleged "abusiveness" of an Ohio Turnpike patrolman who arrested him Sunday night for driving too slowly.

Benis, of Cleveland, said he was going about 42 m.p.h. when the officer stopped him, then ordered him to follow the cruiser. When he failed to keep up, Benis said, the officer stopped him again, then took him to Newton Falls Police Station in Trumbull County.

"Benis told patrol chief Lt. John L. Bishop the officer spoke "so roughly" that his 7-year-old daughter began to cry.

A self-employed truck driver, Benis told a newsmen that speeds of 50 m.p.h. "burn up tires and motor oil and are physically and mentally unhealthy."

Bishop promised to investigate.

Facts From The Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That the American tourist industry is the greatest on earth...yet a recent survey showed 75 per cent of U. S. adults never have made a "journey by air"...50 per cent haven't made a trip of more than 10 miles by bus...and 30 per cent have never traveled by train.

That here is what happens to you when you kiss a pretty girl: the pituitary gland begins secreting like crazy, the adrenal glands are stimulated, the blood pressure rises, some white blood cells break down, the pulse quickens, you breathe faster, the circulation increases and your heart action speeds up. (However, if there is no pretty girl handy, you can get the same results by running around the block.)

That Minnesota has more water within its borders than any other state in the union.

That one out of every three million persons has handwriting so close to your own that only an expert could tell the difference.

That your car contains about 100 pounds of rubber, not including the tires.

That you have roughly a pint of blood for every 12 pounds of body weight, i. e., if your weight is normal.

That phrase "passing the buck," meaning to shift responsibility, originated in cardrooms...from the custom of placing a counter or marker, called a "buck," before a player to remind him it's his turn to deal.

That if you like living in towns with odd names you might consider moving to Bumble Bee, (Ariz.)...or Hygiene, (Colo.)...or Heck, (N. M.)...or Bourbon (Ind.)...or Frostproof, (Fla.)...or Social Circle, (Ga.)...or Cannon Ball, (N. D.)

That chocolate, vanilla and strawberry are still the three most popular kinds of ice cream...but among the 200 flavors available are asparagus, tomato sherbet and (ugh!) spinach.

thing in excess of $25,000 to $30,000 would be a "large" loan by the union.

Indicted with Brewster and Mohn Monday were Nugent La Poma, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 174 in Seattle, and Harry Reiss, welfare fund administrator of the union's Local 227 in New York.

Will Check Tax Returns
Kennedy said he plans to check income tax returns of both Beck and Brewster. President Eisenhower gave the committee authority to examine any federal tax returns for the years 1945 to 1957.

In Seattle, Beck said he wanted to be the first to disclose his tax returns. He told newsmen he paid more than $308,000 in federal income taxes for the eight years from 1949 through 1956.

The tax payments he listed ranged from $15,540 for 1950 to $91,000 for 1956. He said the committee had asked him for information covering 1949-1955 and added that in giving his 1956 figure "I have gone even further in making this disclosure than I need to."

Beck, who must decide Wednesday whether to volunteer to the committee personal financial records it has asked, said he has no objection to use of his tax returns, but he added:

"However, the committee is now going into matters that may become a court case, and to ask me now to come in and furnish other records to them is out of line."

Nixon Hears Chorus Of Demands For Algerian Liberty

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Vice President Nixon was brought face-to-face today in this newly independent nation with demands for independence for neighboring Algeria.

One such cry came from a woman in a yellow sweater.

Apparently near hysteria, she burst through police lines at the U. S. information library during a tumultuous reception for the vice president from thousands of Tunisians.

"Liberty!" she shouted in Arabic. "We want liberty for the Algerian people. The French have killed Algerian children."

Nixon listened patiently while a Tunisian official translated her words into English. Then, without a word, he smiled and walked up the steps into the library office.

He and his party are aware the United States is accused in some quarters of France of meddling in North African affairs.

The woman identified herself to newsmen afterward as a Mrs. Zarouche, Algerian wife of a Tunisian.

Bill Henry, Nixon's spokesman, said Nixon found labor leaders, businessmen and farm representatives of Tunisia, a former French protectorate, chorusing the demand that France give up Algeria, a rebellious territory which she considers part of the French homeland.

Excited Tunisian men, women and boys pelted Nixon with flower petals, applauded and screamed "Nee-xon, Nee-xon" from the U. S. Embassy as he strolled down flag-bedecked Bourguiba Avenue.

Nixon shook hands with hundreds of spectators.

Nixon spent several hours Monday night discussing Tunisia's economic plight with Prime Minister Habib Bourguiba.

Tunisian leaders, looking for outside assistance to bolster an economy hurt by the flight of French capital, are already passing on the world that Nixon has no proposals for substantial American financial assistance.

Until two weeks ago Hassett worked in the General Electric appliance plant at Louisville. His fellow employees and persons who lived with him in a rooming house said he was well liked and were incredulous when told of the incident.

Body Of Magsaysay To Lie In State
MANILA (AP)—The charred body of Ramon Magsaysay, third president of the Philippine Republic, returned to this grieving capital today.

The flag-draped coffin of the popular 49-year-old chief executive, who crashed to his death with 25 others on a Cebu Island mountainside early Sunday, was flown here in the presidential plane Pagasa.

Weeping crowds followed the bier as it was driven slowly through the sun-baked streets of Malacanang Palace. It will lie in state there for three days until the funeral Friday.

Nearly half a million persons swarmed around the palace.

As the nation mourned, a six-man investigating team dug into the likely causes of the fatal plane crash — including the possibility of sabotage.

Maple Sugar Season May Soon Be Over
CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—Unless there is an unexpected sharp freeze in the next day or so, the maple sugar season will be over.

The warm weather of the last week has cut the season short, and total production will average only 40 to 50 per cent of last year, Robert Smith, publicist for the Geauga County Maple Festival, predicted today.

Syrup is still selling in the Chardon area for $5.50 a gallon, the same as last year. But the price will go up unless a freeze extends the season. The weather bureau predicts a low of 33 tonight and 30-32 Wednesday night.

The soft maples have already started to bud and the hard maples, which produce the syrup, are about ready to do so. The sap continues to flow after budding, but it has a strong, undesirable flavor.

SHIPS CAN USE CANAL
SUEZ (AP)—Egypt's Suez Canal Authority announced today that ships up to 1,000 tons can begin going through the canal today.

Egypt opened the waterway, blocked during the British-French-Israeli invasion last fall, to ships of less than 300 tons early this month.

FIGHTER FOR FREEDOM

FROM A HUNGARIAN concentration camp to the United States Air Force—from refugee to airman—that's part of the unusual story of Geza Locsey, who wants to show Americans "my love for this country of yours." It was eight years ago that Geza was sentenced to a concentration camp in Hungary on Communist charges of being "an American spy." Late last year, during the uprising against the Reds, freedom fighters freed him from his prison. Shortly afterward, Geza journeyed to a Cleveland, O., suburb where his sister, Mrs. Stephen Vozary, lives. Just a few days after his arrival, Geza enlisted in the United States Air Force. At his age, 30, he wasn't in danger of being drafted. How is he doing at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas? Officials say, "His transformation from a refugee to a well-trained, disciplined airman has been amazing."

He's writing to his sister.

Berlin Center, Goshen Stars Among 74 Players Named

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—From the crossroads and the villages come the kids named today to The Associated Press Class A high school All-Ohio basketball team.

Sports editors, coaches and officials did the voting. The stars were weeded from 696 squads and some 14,000 players. Seventy-four, from all sectors of the state, were named to the all-star squad.

Selections were made on the basis of games through the county tournaments, so only a few of the talented 74 are still on hand for the Friday-Saturday state championship games.

Zane Leeds of Gratis was named to the second team, and each of the four finalist schools had a player among the 59 "honorable mentions," but the other 68 on the squad fell with their teams somewhere along the tournament trail. Announcement of the all-star team was held up until state tournament week at the request of the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn.

This year's team has no giants among the first five, but it has one of the old-time fireball little men in Bob Filiere of Troy-Lucky. He stands 5 feet 7 and weighs 130. Son of Coach Doyce Filiere of Troy — Lucky, he was the kid who kept his dad's quintet at the top of The Associated Press ratings most of the year.

The tall ones are Jim Opperman of New Bremen and Ron Stephenson of New Boston, each 6 feet 3. Walter Harrop, Shawnee's prolific scorer, is 6 feet 2½, and Larry Simmermacher of Crestline, at 6 feet 1½, rounds out the All-Ohio quintet.

With Leeds, the state tournament players on the All-Ohio squad include "honorable mentions" Ed Bode of Bethel, Marv Hohenberger and Jim Martin of Ayersville, Dick Leggett of Midvale (whose last-second field goal won both regional games for his club) and Gerald McCloud of Gratis.

Canny Boudreau Has Shifty Plan To Halt Mickey Mantle

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Lou Boudreau will be as shifty as ever this season whenever he gets the chance against Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankee muscle man.

The man who perfected the second base pick-off play and devised the shift against Ted Williams, Boudreau will shift all of his Kansas City fielders when Mantle comes to bat in a close game with no Yankees on base.

"We were forced to pull the shift on Mantle last year," says Manager Boudreau. "The Yankees beat us 18 out of 22 games. They hit 47 home runs against us with Mantle, Hank Bauer, Bill Skowron and Yogi Berra getting nine each. They murdered us."

"We had a bad pitching staff and had to try something."

Boudreau, who managed Cleveland to a World Series victory in 1948 and later had the reins at Boston, drew a hurried diagram to show how he plays his seven fielders in a certain situation against Mantle, the American League's most valuable player who hit 52 home runs in 1956.

The left fielder is the only man to play between second base and third.

The third baseman moves to shallow center field.

The shortstop plays on the "wrong side" of second base.

The second baseman plays a deep first base in shallow right.

"We figure to have a better pitching staff this season," says Boudreau. "I plan to shift on Mantle again in the right situation in a close game. Of course, if we're leading by a good margin, or the Yankees have a big lead, we won't bother with it. We'll pitch to him."

"But with none on base in a tight game and Mantle batting left-handed we'll spread out in the shift. We'll give him a bunt single anytime rather than a home run. It worked last year."

It sure did work. The first time Boudreau pulled the shift against Mantle in Yankee Stadium, the switch-hitting 25-year-old slugger from Commerce, Okla., struck out twice.

Mantle tried to bunt the first two strikes twice and each time fanned when he took a good rattle for the seats.

At least Mantle wasn't stubborn against the shift. With third base open he'll bunt to get on when the Yankees are behind. When Boudreau shifted against Williams, the Boston slugger ignored it and swung for the seats. He seldom beat the shift.

"We'll concede him bunt singles," says Boudreau. "Just so he doesn't murder us with those home runs."

Why all the fuss over Mantle by one manager? Well, the Mickey hit .353 to lead both leagues in '56. Against Kansas City he was .438. And if you care to be technical, it was .577 batting right-handed and .370 left-handed.

Syracuse Nationals Win Opening Round

By The Associated Press

The Syracuse Nationals hurdled the opening round of the eastern division playoffs in the National Basketball Assn., and the Minneapolis Lakers will attempt to eliminate the Pistons in a western division series tonight at Fort Wayne.

With Philadelphia Warrior ace Paul Arizin benched because of a thigh injury, the Nationals made it two straight in the best-of-three series Monday night at Syracuse, winning 91-80. Arizin, the league's top scorer, played three minutes at the start.

This qualified Syracuse for the best-of-five eastern finals against the Boston Celtics opening in Boston Thursday night. The teams meet again Sunday at Syracuse in a nationally televised game.

Philadelphia, defending champion, led 37-35 at halftime, but John Kerr led a Nat rally that sent his team ahead 58-53 as the third period closed.

Minneapolis, a 131-127 winner Sunday night, can clinch the best-of-three western series by winning tonight. If a third game is necessary it will be played Wednesday at Minneapolis.

MAY SWITCH POSITIONS
LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP)—Don't be surprised if Detroit Tiger manager Jack Tighe moves Al Kaline from right field to center field.

Providing young Jim Small continues his sensational spring hitting, Tighe will consider moving Kaline to center and putting Small the 20-year-old bonus rookie, in right.

"Practically every major league club you can name has its best outfielder in center," said Tighe in discussing the possible move. "But we've had our best one-Kaline-in right. Up to now, it's been a matter of being satisfied with Bill Tuttle in center, but it's no secret that Kaline is our finest defensive man."

Stefan Redl Knocks Out Al Milone

By JERRY LISKA

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Willie Mays, the New York Giants' brilliant center fielder, laughed when he heard a suggestion by a rival National League pitcher that the best way to pitch to him was to throw four wide ones past him.

The suggestion came from Brooks Lawrence of the Cincinnati Redlegs, who said at Tampa, Fla., he'd give Willie nothing good to look at this season and take his chances with the batter behind Mays.

"That fellow Lawrence was pulling somebody's leg," said Mays today. "I don't think I got three or four hits off him last year. He's spreading some false propaganda."

But judging by Willie's start this exhibition season, maybe Lawrence has the right idea.

As the Giants met the Chicago Cubs at Mesa, Ariz., in the 10th game of cactus league competition, Mays had a spring batting average of .516 on 16 hits in 31 trips. Nine were extra-base blows, including three homers.

Mays shrugs off his torrid start as nothing exceptional. "I get in shape quick," he said. "And I'm not hitting anything but straight pitching. This is spring, you know. They don't start throwing that ball for keeps until April 17."

Hoak Is Good Bet To Land Hot Corner Job With Redlegs

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

Don Hoak, who played off and on at third base for two years with the Brooklyn Dodgers and for 121 games with the Chicago Cubs last year, seemed a good bet today to land the hot corner job this season with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Manager Birdie Tebbetts has been using Alex Grammas, who also performs at third, at shortstop lately, and this could be half the Cincinnati infield lineup on opening day.

Hoak, 29, batted in three runs Monday as the Redlegs defeated the Boston Red Sox 7-6 in 10 innings at Sarasota, Fla. With the bases loaded in the eighth, Hoak singled to drive in two runs and tie the score at 5-5. Then in the 10th after Jerry Lynch's pinch hit triple and a walk to Johnny Temple, Hoak singled again. Another score came home on an infield out.

Sunday, Hoak got 3-for-3 against the New York Yankees.

Last fall Hoak, pitcher Warren Hacker and outfielder Pete Whisenant were swapped by Chicago to Cincinnati for third baseman Ray Jablonski and pitcher Elmer Singleton.

Exhibition activity was limited to five games Monday.

A three-bagger in the 10th inning by Mike Baxes scored Johnny Groh and produced a 4-3 victory for the Kansas City Athletics over the Pittsburgh Pirates at West Palm Beach, Fla. Dale Long and Bill Virdon homered for the Pirates.

Detroit shortstop Harvey Kuenn made three errors and the Brooklyn Dodgers scored seven unearned runs in the first two innings to defeat the Tigers 8-1 in a night game at Miami. Don Newcombe, making his first appearance since the Dodgers visited Japan last fall, allowed two hits in two innings and was credited with the victory.

At Bradenton, Fla., Andy Pafko belted a three-run homer in the eighth inning, his second of the spring, to break a 3-all tie as the Milwaukee Braves took a 7-3 verdict from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar of the Yankees, combined their mound talents to shut out the Philadelphia Phillies 5-0 on three hits.

Cronin told me that what the Red Sox needed was a good, first-line pitcher and that Score would probably be worth a million dollars to the Red Sox.

"Then I said to him, 'You mean you'd really give a million dollars for Score?'"

"Cronin said he would."

The Cleveland official advised Cronin he was out to build up the Indians, not tear them down.

Cronin, whose Red Sox, with the Indians, are the main contenders against the Yankees, confirmed he had made the offer for Score.

"We tried to make a deal with Cleveland and haven't been able to work anything out," he said.

"Finally I said to Greenberg, 'There's only one thing I can do. That is to offer you a million dollars for Herb Score. Take that back to your board of directors.'"

When it was suggested to Cronin that he might buy the whole Cleveland ball club for three million dollars, the Boston official said:

"I don't want to belittle the ball club, but maybe Score is worth one third of the franchise."

Score, 20-9 with the Indians in 1956, has led the American League in strikeouts in both his major league seasons. The 23-year-old lefty has whiffed 508 major league batters in two years. He won 16 games his rookie year.

The Rosedale, N. Y. native was promoted to the Indians after 1954 when he won 22 and struck out 330 for Indianapolis of the AAA American Assn.

21 County Archers Compete In Shoot

Twenty-one Columbiana County archers held the second in a series of three shoots Sunday at their indoor range in the Vargo Building in Lisbon.

Paul Kuhns of Lisbon won in the expert class 'A' division; Richard Palmer, East Liverpool, expert 'B' division; Gary Homan, Lisbon, bowman class; Walter Gudat, Washingtonville, archer division; and Philip Heckathorn, East Liverpool, novice division.

The final shoot in the series will be Sunday afternoon.

The grounds committee Sunday checked the outdoor field course at the Willow Grove Park and will start getting it ready for the club's "early bird" shoot on May 19.

Bowling Congress Now In 11th Day

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The scores were growing bigger today as the American Bowling Congress tournament moved into the 11th day of its 51-day run.

Highlighting Monday's action was the performance of a new open team division leader, the Peter Hand Reserve Beer team of Chicago, which grabbed the top rung with a booming 3,126 team total.

Two veterans from Cincinnati, Ohio slammed into the doubles lead. Rudy Fassl and Sam Coleman, who between them have appeared in 33 ABC tournaments, banged out a 1,309 total on games of 414, 437 and 458. They replaced Joe Root and John Skeris, Sheboygan, Wis., who fell to second with 1,303.

Dean Overholser of Chicago still leads the singles standing with 708. Johnny Crimmins of Detroit, second in the singles with 705, leads all events standings with 1,922.

Garrett Oil Tool No. 1 of Longview, Tex., moved into the booster division lead with 2,754.

cars ARE MY Life

by Al Parker

TWO BOYS AND A USED CAR DEALER

They tell the story about the used car operator who set up his trailer on a vacant lot in these parts a few years ago, got himself a few worn-out oil-burners in shiny bodies and with that was all set for business.

Among his first customers were two young lads who were looking for a car to take them on a cross-country tour. They were trusting lads and after some real side-winding sales talk they plunked their dough down for a klunker in the back row.

Well, sad to relate, the old buggy broke down 100 miles from town, and 200 miles from town and 500 miles from town and, as a matter of fact, it broke down just about once a day.

But these were spirited lads and they never complained (not that it would have done them any good anyway). At almost every stop they sent back to their used car friend a postcard with the message, "Wish you were here."

The postcards were sent from Leavenworth, Death Valley, Hell's Canyon and Suicide Gorge.

We don't know whether the boys ever got back to that town, but one day that used car dealer disappeared and no one ever saw him again.

You can never really be sure of the condition of a used car—unless you're sure of the dealer you've gone to. The need of a franchise agency—like ourselves—to have lots of happy customers is your most important warranty.

That warranty of thorough service and the best prices doesn't last for 30 days, or 60, or 90, it lasts forever.

IBC Seeks Legal Advice On Fights

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP) — Ole Archie Moore weighed a couple of Canadian offers for title defenses as the perplexed International Boxing Club sought legal advice today on whether they could dicker for championship fights.

The 40-year-old light-heavyweight champion had been given a March 18 deadline by the NBA to sign for a June title defense. So he came to town Monday ready to sign papers with the IBC for a Detroit bout with the winner of the Tony Anthony-Chuck Spieser 12-round April 5.

Archie's timing was OK but

Columbiana Shopping Plaza Will Be Completed July 1

Plan Opening Ceremonies For Opening of New Plaza

COLUMBIANA —Special opening ceremonies are planned for the new shopping plaza in Columbiana, which is expected to be completed about July 1.

The Chamber of Commerce has appointed William Furney and Russell Lindsay to arrange a program in connection with a display of the new A. & P. and Ben Franklin stores for Columbiana and vicinity.

The A. & P. section will be 62 x 135 feet, 10 feet longer than the Ben Franklin, which will be 40 x 125.

No tenant has leased the middle room, 18 x 125 feet.

Two Sunday school classes will meet in Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church Thursday, the Dorcas Class at 2 p.m. and the Wide Awake Class at 8:30 p.m.

SUPERVISOR George H. Burton of the Columbiana Ground Observer Corps reports that volunteers are still needed for some daylight hours, although 10 open periods have been filled in the last few weeks. The daylight periods are hardest to get filled.

Rules governing a contest in which winning observers will get a trip to a Cleveland Indians game late next summer have been revised to make allowance for vacations and other necessary absences, by which lost time may be made up.

Columbiana County Public Health

League will have its annual meeting in connection with a joint dinner with Columbiana Business and Professional Women's Club in Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church at 6:30 p.m. next Thursday.

Two members of the Columbiana B.P.W., Mrs. Walter Miller of Columbiana and Mrs. Arthur Spahn of Leetonia, are members of the health league executive committee.

Dr. Rose Wong of Youngstown, who made her escape from China, will relate her experiences.

Miss Lillian R. Schroeder, executive director of the health league will review the work of the last 12 months and outline proposed plans, and Leo Lawrence of East Liverpool will present a slate of proposed officers for the election to be held.

The Sorosis Club will meet in the public library at 8 p.m. tomorrow, when religious emphasis night will be observed.

INITIATION OF new members is scheduled for the March meeting tomorrow evening of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Firestone American Legion Post, the initiations to be conducted by the Past Presidents' Parley.

A community service program will be under the direction of Mrs. Leah Hitchcock, chairman of that committee.

Firestone American Legion Post

Active At Kent State

Wilbur G. Beck (above), son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beck, RD 2, Columbiana, is president of Theta Chi, social fraternity at Kent State University.

A senior in the College of Business Administration, Beck is a member of Inter-Fraternity Council and the Society for the Advancement of Management.

has not yet received its allotment of reservations for Buckeye Boys' State, to be held at Camp Perry June 7-16, a week earlier than usual because the National Guard will be taking over the camp the following week.

The 10th Ohio district, largest Legion district in the state, embracing 82 posts, including Firestone, has made reservation requests in excess of its quota, 141 to 125. The local post has been sending annually three high school juniors, two from Columbiana and one from Fairfield. Requests from five other Legion districts in the state exceed their quotas.

Rev. Donald J. Voelm of Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church will be the preacher at the community pre-Easter service in Zion Hill Church of the Brethren at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

His subject will be "Behold Thy Mother, Thy Son."

The Philo Class will meet at the Methodist Church at 7:15 to attend the service in a group, after which members will return to the Methodist Church for their March meeting. The committee is Dorothy Murphy, Ardis Detwiler, Etta Moorehead, Jennie Newsom and Mildred Mowen.

Representatives of the Ohio Employment Service are giving general aptitude tests today and tomorrow to Columbiana High School seniors who plan to attend college. Thirty-six of the 48 seniors expect to enroll in colleges.

Ohio To Plant 96% Of '56 Acreage In Corn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio farmers are expected to plant approximately 3,493,000 acres of corn this year, or about 96 per cent of last year's acreage, the Department of Agriculture estimates.

Estimates released Monday are based on planting plans of farmers as reported March 1.

Oat estimates show a slight increase over last year with 1,191,000 acres estimates, or two per cent above 1956.

Other acreage estimates and the percentage of the 1956 acreage are:

Soybeans—1,419,000 or 106 per cent.

Tobacco—12,900 or 98 per cent.

Sugar Beets—21,000 or 114 per cent.

Will Try To Avert Railroad Strike

CLEVELAND (AP)—The National Railway Mediation Board planned to offer mediation services today in an effort to avert a strike called for 6:30 a.m. tomorrow against a section of the New York Central system.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen called the strike against the NYC on lines between Buffalo, N. Y., and Chicago.

W. E. A. Chase, Brotherhood vice president, said the walkout was authorized Monday night by the union's general committee of New York Central lines west. The action, he said, followed the Company's refusal at a conference Monday to make a move on grievances that led to an unauthorized walkout by brakemen here and in Buffalo Sunday.

In Washington, Eugene Thompson, secretary of the mediation board, said the board would contact the Brotherhood today, offering its services and asking postponement of the strike deadline until a mediator goes in.

Chase earlier had told a reporter that the NYC might call in the mediation board and that it was probable the union would honor any board request for postponement of the strike deadline.

Douglas Campbell, superintendent of the NYC division between Cleveland and Buffalo, said he had no comment. He explained that he had not been informed of the strike action.

Chase said the strike would affect about 3,000 Brotherhood members directly and would involve a total of about 20,000 railroad employees. He said that the 30-day

In And About Our Schools

Buckeye School Kindergarten and sixth grade students at Buckeye School enjoyed outings recently.

Thursday, the kindergarten pupils went to Alliance by train. They were accompanied by their teachers, Mrs. James Barnes and Miss Sally Moore. A special coach was added for the 76 in the group. The children were met at the Alliance depot by their parents. Previously the class visited the Salem fire department.

Last week, Aubrey Hayes, superintendent of utilities, conducted the sixth graders on a tour to the Salem East Cold Run and through the filtration plant.

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILS

Egypt, Saudi Arabia Press Double Squeeze Against Israel

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Israelis express surprise at what Egyptian President Nasser is doing. Any reason for the surprise? Not much unless they can produce secret pledges by the United States or the United Nations.

They've produced none yet. Secretary of State Dulles reportedly told Senators Monday there were none. All they got, it seems, were pious hopes that things would work out all right.

Take it step by step. When Israel's war with her Arab neighbors ended in 1949 there was an armistice agreement which gave Egypt control of the Gaza Strip. Egyptians later used Gaza for guerrilla raids on Israel.

Further, Egypt took over in 1951 the Tiran Islands at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba, fortified them, and blockaded Israeli shipping although the islands belong to Saudi Arabia.

When the Israelis invaded Egypt last October they seized Gaza and drove the Egyptians out of the Aqaba area. Thereafter the United States and the U. N. pressured Israel to pull her troops out of both places.

Israel got from President Eisenhower, Dulles, Henry Cabot Lodge, American delegate to the U. N., and U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld expressions of hope that once Israel withdrew solutions might be found.

Eisenhower also said: 1. If Egypt violated the armistice line, by raids on Israel, "this should be dealt with firmly by the society of nations." He didn't say how.

2. The United States was "prepared" to join with others to "secure general recognition" of all nations—which would include Israel—to free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba. Eisenhower didn't say how this would be done either.

So Israel withdrew from Egypt. U. N. troops moved into Gaza and into the gulf area.

Now the Egyptians are taking over control of Gaza while the U. N. troops are moving to the armistice line. Note: All the U. N. resolution said was that its troops would take positions on the armistice line. It didn't say Nasser wouldn't be permitted to take control of the whole of Gaza, except the line.

And now Saudi Arabia is taking over the Tiran Islands at the mouth of the gulf, with a denial of any Israeli rights in that water.

The United States is extremely anxious to keep Saudi Arabia friendly. If now the Israeli shipping is blockaded, this country will have the embarrassment of dealing with Saud, instead of Nasser, although Nasser will get what he wants without being mixed up in an argument.

Where does that leave Israel? Probably blockaded again in the gulf. So long as U. N. troops remain on the armistice line, Egypt is unlikely to resume its raids on Israel.

But — Israel hasn't let the U. N. troops take up positions on the Israeli side of the armistice line, as they have on the Egyptian side. This may give Nasser an excuse to demand the withdrawal of U. N. troops altogether.

DISSOLVES INJUNCTION

CINCINNATI (AP)—Common Pleas Judge John M. Renner Monday dissolved a temporary injunction, barring Decor Corp. from negotiating with the United Mine Workers, so that a union representation dispute can be settled by the National Labor Relations Board.

The Allied Industrial Workers union obtained the injunction Feb. 28, charging the mine workers called a strike at the plant and after obtaining bargaining rights for workers, called it off.

TRY TO SETTLE STRIKE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—With no progress to report from Monday's session, federal mediators are meeting with labor and management representatives again today to try to settle the Linde Air Products Co. plant strike in Kittanning, Pa.

Negotiations are being carried on separately for each of the five Linde operations struck by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers. One plant of the five is at Youngstown, Ohio. Liquid oxygen produced by the plants is used in the steel industry.
